A Weston man crippled following a surgical procedure gone wrong hopes the Department of Health will step up and assist him gaining his life back. James Skinner, co-owner of ValleyEvents.ca, suffers from Empty Nose Syndrome, which leaves him constantly exhausted, suffering from severe headaches and the sensation he is suffocating. His application for provincial disability support was turned down last week and he's burned through his savings. Kings West MLA Leo Glavine hopes to chat with the Deputy Minister of Health, Kevin McNamara today about ways the Health Department can help Skinner regain his life.
